Staying Safe Online

- There are many online threats, these may include;
  - i) Grooming
  - ii) Online trolls
  - iii) Sites with extremist views
  - iv) Email scams

- There are many precautions that can be put in place:
  - i) Know who you are talking to – students and staff must be aware meeting online acquaintances can potentially be very dangerous and they should be aware that such people are still strangers despite the information they may choose to share online.
  - ii) Don't give out personal information – certain criminal organisations take advantage of vulnerable people in society by asking for private information including addresses, bank account details, and other personal details.
  - iii) Not everything online is true – anyone can write anything online and there is often no one who checks the content, staff and students should get their information from a variety of sources and only chat with people who they have met in person.
  - iv) Trusted sources- staff and students should only open messages and files from trusted sources.
  - v) Online conduct – staff and students should be aware that their own conduct may attract negative attention and so they should be cautious of what they share and how they respond to certain online postings.
  - vi) Protect the vulnerable – old people and children are particularly vulnerable, young students and those with children should be aware of the dangerous effects of online interaction and take necessary safety/ restriction precautions.
  - vii) Online protection – staff and students should make use of online passwords and privacy settings and choose a variety of passwords which cannot be easily guessed.
  - viii) Know where to get help – online concerns will be dealt with in the same ways as any other Prevent concerns and should be discussed with the necessary staff member (see below)
